Lamar Bandit Clue Found In Santa Barbara; Big Demonstration Greet's Boulder Passage

3000 JOIN IN SEARCH OF KILLERS

SANTA BARBARA, May 25 (U.P.)—Belief that the bandit quartette, that held up the Lamar, Colo., First National Bank, shot two officials, and escaped with $44,000, had been organized in Southern California, was expressed here tonight by Sheriff Ross.

The sheriff said he had received information that three men had left this city last Saturday night after having spoken of the supposed ease with which the bank could be robbed.

The information came to the sheriff through a man who said one of the quartette had robbed him of a gun. The name of the leader was given as Dan Kamper, about 31, formerly of Oklahoma, and said to be well acquainted with Lamar.

Sheriff Ross refused to give the names of the two other members of the band, saying they were well known in Santa Barbara and he did not wish to implicate them until he had received further confirmation.

The description of Kamper was given as follows: six feet tall, dark complexion, weight about 200 pounds.

"Babe" MAN, ENTOMBED SIX DAYS, IS FOUND ALIVE

MATHER, Penn., May 25 (U.P.)—John Wade, 28, a negro loader, was found alive tonight in the Maher coal mine shaft which was wrecked last Saturday by an explosion. Wade, who had spent more than six days in the shaft, was weak and unable to talk coherently but mine officials said they believed he was in the mine when the blast killed nearly 200 workers. He was found 2 1/2 miles from the mouth of the shaft. It was believed he had wandered through connecting tunnels after being cut off from rescue parties by wreckage.

Pup Clears Mistress In L. A. Court

LOS ANGELES, May 25 (U.P.)—Rex didn't think his mistress, Mrs. Gladys Bloomhurst, was cruel and he so successfully argued the case that charges against her were dropped.

A neighbor had asserted that Mrs. Bloomhurst beat the little dog and so the pup's mistress was arrested.

Mrs. Bloomhurst took the stand and called, "Come here, Rex." Rex wagged his tail, went to the witness chair, jumped up and kissed his mistress.

"Case dismissed," ruled the court.

Valley Towns GO WILD WHEN NEWS FLASHED

EL CENTRO, May 25 (U.P.)—The Imperial Valley went wild today on receipt of word that the house had passed the Swing-Johnson bill for construction of the Boulder dam.

Towns throughout the valley that exist because of the life-giving waters of the river but which also face the menace of flood from the stream, staged a night of celebration.

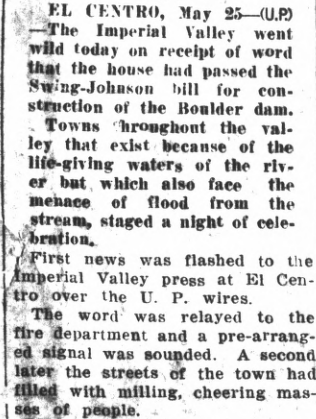

First news was flashed to the Imperial Valley press at El Centro over the U. P. wires.

The word was relayed to the fire department and a pre-arranged signal was sounded. A second later the streets of the town had filled with milling, cheering masses of people.

Bells were rung and whistles blown. Highest city officials participated. The news was telephoned from El Centro to Calico, Brawley and other towns in the valley where similar celebrations were held.

Congressman Swing, joint author of the bill, a resident of El Centro, was deluged with telegrams of congratulation. The congressman talked to residents by long distance telephone with the intention of giving them the tidings. Informed that the word was received, he congratulated the United Press for its rapid service.

RADIO ON DIRIGIBLE IS SILENT

KINGS BAY, May 25 (U.P.)—Fears for the safety of the polar dirigible Italia, under command of General Umberto Nobile were intensified early today as hour upon hour passed with no word coming out of the frozen north where the ship apparently is at the mercy of Arctic storms.

The Citta di Milano, mother ship of the polar dirigible lost wireless contact with the Italia at 11 a. m. Friday and since that time has been a mystery.

At 3:05 a. m. today the Italia had been away from its base nearly 70 hours a length of time that was considered alarming in view of the fact that its fuel supply must be running low if it is not exhausted.

Dirigible experts remaining here were uncertain as to the exact length of time Nobile's fuel supply might last in view of the uncertainty of the storm conditions.

More fuel probably would be consumed, they pointed out, if the ship was bucking head winds.

Although maintaining confidence that the Italia would ride through the possibility of a forced landing at some other point and eventually return here to its base, the members of the expedition were discussing the possibility of such a landing and the mother ship was made ready for a quick start in event distress signals were picked up.

For the first few hours after the Italia failed to send wireless messages (the last one telling of terrific storms) it was suggested that possibly Nobile had put his wireless operator to work elsewhere on the ship, but this morning members of the expedition admitted it was unlikely he would arbitrarily fail to send messages if possible. His wireless equipment probably is damaged, they said.

Scouts Mobilize For Local 'Clean Up' War

Richmond Boy Scouts today present the vanguard of the "clean up army" which will be mobilized Monday when Richmond celebrates "Clean Up Week" sponsored by the chamber of commerce and supported by the service clubs, the parent-teacher associations, the department of schools, the police and others.

The Boy Scouts will place a pamphlet prepared under the direction of the civic affairs committee, Ralph N. Bergen, chairman, and bearing the stamp of approval of all other public and civic organizations, in the hands of every Richmond householder. Five thousand circulars will be distributed by the Scouts.

"Let's add beauty and protection to Richmond's attractions as a superior industrial community" is the slogan of "Clean Up Week."

Join the crusade on dirt, rubbish and fire hazards, is the plea of the Civic Affairs Committee and the others sponsoring the event.

Under the heading "Here's how you can help," the general committee, headed by Bergen, says to Richmond home owners and householders:

Rid your garret and basement of old papers and rags and other health and fire hazards.

Clean up the garage of oil rags and its grease and accumulated dirt.

Gather up and place in the garbage can all tin cans and other rubbish in your back yard.

Plant shrubs and flowers, trim your lawn or plant a new one.

Remove the bluish of unsightly piles of old lumber, boxes and other waste material.

Trim the shrubbery, paint the fence or the garage if necessary, make your home and your home premises clean and beautiful.

Dirt breeds disease and accumulated rubbish breeds fire, potential hazards to yourself and your city.

Ferry Line Is Sold To Bridge Co.

Ratification of sales of the Martinez-Benicia Ferry company to the American Toll Bridge company for a price reported to be in the neighborhood of $140,000 was made yesterday afternoon at a meeting of stockholders of the ferry company in Martinez.

With a majority of stockholders in favor of the sale, vote on the proposal was perfunctory as the stock owners went into session.

With ratification of the sale by the stockholders it will be necessary to go before the Railroad Commission for final sanction.

Under the deal the ferry company will retain ownership of the rail property in Martinez and Cordelia.

The bridge company, it is understood, intends to sell or scrap the ferry steamers City of Martinez and City of Seattle and place the steamer Issaquah, formerly on the Rodeo-Vallejo route, on the run between Martinez and Benicia on a half hourly schedule.

Escapades Of San Rafael Man Climax Before Judge Odell

R. E. Stengel, San Rafael tree trimmer, and apparent contestant for the world's hard luck title, completed another episode in a series of adventures with the law, when he appeared before Police Judge Odell yesterday on a charge of reckless driving. The court took cognizance of recent heavy fines on Stengel and, determined to attack the situation at its source, revoked Stengel's license for a period of six months as well as levying a six months suspended sentence.

Since Stengel first came under official scrutiny two weeks ago, his brushes with the law have cost him close to $400 on charges of reckless driving, preferred against him in the local and Walnut Creek courts. On top of this, Stengel paid damages sustained by a local hotel when the bedclothes in his room became ignited from a lighted cigarette butt.

HOW TALL IS A BRAVE MAN?

The United States marines have moved up in height. No candidate will hereafter be accepted by that scrappy organization who does not measure at least 5 feet 6 inches.

Undoubtedly the heads of the Marine Corps have good reasons for their action.

It may be that cloth for uniforms is cheaper if bought in large quantities, or something like that.

To a layman, however, it seems as if there is real merit in putting all the small men possible into our armed forces.

They expose less surface to the bullets of the enemy and are almost without exception dynamic, whirlwind fighters.

Their merit has been established by the records of such eminent short men as Napoleon Bonaparte.

It seems to us that the Marine Corps, which makes few mistakes, has made a serious mistake in barring otherwise acceptable men because they are shy in inches.

Every child ought to learn to swim at such an early age that by the time he is grown swimming will be as natural and automatic as walking. It is harder for adults to learn, and they seldom acquire the almost instinctive proficiency of those who learn as children. But any one can learn enough to save his life in a minor emergency, and most emergencies are minor; few people are called upon to swim the English channel. The swimming season is on. Learn to swim and see that your children also learn.—Sacramento Bee.

There seems to be no end to the introduction of novelties in aviation. Who would have dreamed that the airplane could be successfully employed in herding reindeer? Yet that is what it is being used for in Alaska, and according to Ralph Lomen, pioneer in the reindeer business there, the idea has proved not only practical but quite successful.—Los Angeles Times.

Affairs of the Heart and Your Marriage Problems

Patricia Lee

Patricia Lee answers questions relating to problems of married life. Names and address should be added to letters as a mark of good faith but will not be published. Readers who desire private answers should enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin to cover cost of typing, etc. Because of space limitations it is not possible to print answers to all letters received, and readers who wish an early reply should take advantage of this special department, about ten days should be allowed for a reply. Write to Patricia Lee, care of this paper.

Dear Patricia Lee—

I have been married for six years but during that time have been separated a number of times because my wife leaves me every time I try to make her live with my folks. They do not need our help; my father and brothers all make good salaries, but mother thinks we should stay there because my wife works. I simply can't live without her, she means everything to me, but I can't believe she loves me if she is not willing to live with my folks. Although they really do not care for her they treat her all right. She is too independent to let my mother explain things to her and won't let mother show her the proper way to spend her money. She wants to buy a home with our savings, but it would be foolish when my people own a nice big place and we could stay there. I am afraid if she leaves again she won't come back, and yet I don't want to displace my dear mother. Should I let her go out of my life?—HOWARD.

Dear Howard—
Your wife is right and you are wrong—all wrong. Why should she live with your folks? She married you, not them. Why should your mother presume to tell your wife what to do with money she has earned herself? If she knows enough to earn her wages then she knows enough to spend them. I think she has been remarkably patient to come back to you time after time when you show so little consideration. Haven't you any backbone of your own? Are you always going to borrow your folks' home and their opinions? Sit down and do some hard thinking for yourself, Howard. I don't believe you realize what you are asking your wife to do.

With the coming of summer sheer, picturesque organdie will return to favor. Already the smart shops are showing cool little frocks of pastel colored organdie for summer dances.

The black lace dress offers a splendid solution to the problem of the woman who can afford only one evening gown. At the moment nothing is smarter. Slips in several colors may be worn to give variety.

DADDY DUSK

The Sandman

That afternoon when Joe and Twin and Twinnie got home from school they found old Grandfather Benson sitting on the front porch. "Hello, children," cried Grandfather Benson. "I've come to visit you for a while." And out of his pockets he pulled a paper bag of peppermints. Grandfather Benson always carried a bag of peppermints. "Oh, thank you, grandfather," cried all the children as they popped the pink and white-striped candies into their mouths. The children were always glad to have Grandfather Benson visit them when he came from a neighboring town. For Grandfather Benson was lots of fun. You went walking and grandfather could tell you the names of all the flowers and the birds he saw. The children were sure that Grandfather Benson knew more than anybody in the world—except, of course, daddy.

Then, too, Grandfather Benson could whistle the neatest things out of soft wood. Once he made out a wooden doll for Twinnie, and when he had painted on red lips and black hair and blue eyes it looked like a real baby. He had whittled wonderful whistles for Joe and Twin. They were louder than any whistles in school. Yes, Grandfather Benson was a great playmate.

And if it hadn't been for their terrible secret about the old house they would have been very, very glad to see him.

But later, behind the barn, Joe and Twin and Twinnie all sat around and in whispers asked each other: "Do you suppose Grandfather Benson has come here because he has heard about his old house being haunted?"

One of the newest tri-color accessories is the crystal necklace in choker style with red, white and blue frocks. Another novel idea is a clever version of the costume flower. It is made up of gay red, white and blue bits of silk, which form the petals of the flower and add a striking note of color to any costume.

PASSIVE EXERCISE

At first glance it seems like a minner to speak of passive exercise. Exercise is essentially activity, whereas passivity is associated with rest. However, it is possible to have some one else move the different parts of one's body without making any active personal effort. This is the form of exercise which is called passive. It is applied as follows:

The patient lies on a table and the operator moves all the different parts of the body in every possible direction, raising and lowering the head; twisting it from side to side; raising and lowering twisting and rotating the arms and legs; raising and lowering the patient's body, etc. During all this exercise the patient remains completely relaxed. The mechanical effects of the movements, however, causes some flexion and extension of the muscles and considerable stretching of the joints, all of which stimulates the circulation so that some of the benefits of active exercise are obtained.

Passive exercise is used mostly in conditions where the patient is incapable of active exercise and is especially applicable in cases of paralysis. It is not as valuable as active exercise, but is important in its place. Other methods of administering passive exercise are by means of the direct application of electricity and by the use of the electric vibrator. Each of these has its own particular advantage, but space does not permit discussion of them today.

Can you tell me if there is any hospital or institution where one can be cured of some J. M. I know of no hospital or institution that can cure you of a disease, as only nature cures. However, there are drugless sanitariums where you could secure the necessary education in right habits of living to permit nature to cure you. You will find a list of such sanitariums in the classified advertising sections of Physical Culture Magazine. It is not always necessary to take institutional treatment. If one has sufficient will power he can do the job at home. Detailed instructions will be found in Mr. Macfadden's book, "Skin Troubles."

Please give some advice on how to correct a low blood pressure. Low blood pressure indicates general lack of vitality and in most cases the only thing necessary is to employ general health building measures such as proper diet, deep breathing of fresh air, sun baths, cool baths and plenty of sleep. Raw foods are important in the diet. Of course tea, coffee, tobacco, alcohol, medicines and all energy wasting habits must be avoided.

GOOD MANNERS

Q. I find myself puzzled as to what I should do with all the silver that confronts me in restaurants, etc. I do not know what foods I should eat with a spoon, with a fork or with the fingers. Please advise me.

A. When the table is set with much flat silver, begin with the article at the outside and use the others in the order in which they are arranged. The following foods are eaten with spoons: Fruit cocktails, oranges, grapefruit, stewed fruits, berries, soups, all soft desserts, like custards, jellies and foos. The following foods are eaten with forks: Fish, meats, vegetables, salads of every sort, pie, pastery, eggs, soft cakes. The following foods may be eaten with fingers: Bread, rolls, crisp cakes, wafers, salted nuts, olives, pickles, small firm sandwiches, candy and potato chips.

Q. How old must a girl be before she is chosen maid of honor? Is it permissible for a married man to act as best man?

A. A maid of honor may be anywhere from 14 to 45. As a rule the bride's sister acts as maid of honor; if not, the bride's best friend is chosen. The best man may be married or single.

water that would mean the return of the little boat and the answer to all her hopes and prayers. "Oh, I can't see what can be keeping them," she sighed. "Here we are, dying for news of when we are to land, and they have had time to go and come back a half a dozen times." Betty moved about impatiently. "Jerome, dear," she said, "if your hand is here, nothing can have gone wrong, can it?" "God forbid," Jerome exclaimed, patting her tenderly. "Why, you're trembling," Betty could feel his hand, cold and shivering in her grasp. "No, no, I am only cold," Jerome lied, trying to keep the fear from his voice. But he was trembling, and he was afraid. He knew now that something must have gone wrong—something must have frustrated their plans. Surely, if Napoleon had sent word that they were to land, the envoys would have been back by now and they would have already been on their way to Paris. "Jerome, do you love me?" Betty asked, her voice trembling. "Do I love you, Betty?" Jerome took her tenderly in his arms and kissed her. "I have been before in your love, sweetheart. Before I found you I lived among the shadows seeking something—I did not know what. And then you came, and I knew. It was the light of the world shining through you, my dear, adorable Betty."

"Then no matter what happens we will always be together, won't we, Jerome? Oh promise me that. I can't live without your love. I feel as though I had never known before what it was to live. I was so childish, so young. I didn't realize all the beauty that life could hold. I asked so many things of life, then—now I only ask that I may rest secure in your heart."

"You do, Betty, you do, my darling, my own! Always remember that I love you. If anything should ever happen to us, remember that I told you this. He held her at arm's length, looking longingly at the dear face before him. He caught her to him, kissing her madly. "My Betty, my dear, dear Betty, I love you—love you—love you!"

They stood clasped in each other's arms lost to the world about them. For the moment all anxiety, all care was forgotten. They were only two people who stood together in a little fragment all their own. Suddenly there came the sound of a voice from above halting them through a trumpet. "Aboard there! Is that the La Cigale?" came the cry. A rush of hands on deck; a shout and the Captain came running, shouting loudly. "Yes, who are you?" "Messenger from the Emperor a Captain Bonaparte," came the answer. Betty and Jerome stood rigidly tense, clasping each other's hands. "From the Emperor?" Betty cried. "Oh, Jerome, they have come back. They have come back! It's all right. Everything is all right! Oh, I must run below and make myself ready. She ran her hands through her damp curly hair.

"Messenger from the Emperor about to board us, sir," the Captain saluted Jerome.

"Thank you, Captain," Jerome returned the salute. "Ah, this is better than I had hoped," he exclaimed, under his breath. "At least he recognizes us."

The Captain leaned over the rail at the gangway and spoke slowly. "All right, there below. Steady, that's it! Steady now," he called as the sailors leapt over the ladder on which Pierre was already beginning to mount.

CHAPTER XIII

St. Pierre threw a heavily booted leg over the side of the boat and stepped onto the deck, closely followed by Dufrene. Two soldiers fell in behind them. Far below, rocking on the waters, rested a small boat. In its prow guarded by two more soldiers. At the appearance of Napoleon's aides, Jerome clicked his heels and came to attention.

"My service, Captain Bonaparte," St. Pierre saluted. "One moment by your leave. Word to the Captain of the ship."

The Captain, standing back near the cabin, leapt to attention. St. Pierre handed him one of the huge white envelopes affixed with the familiar Napoleonic insignia. The Captain bowed, took the orders and returned to his cabin.

"Now, Captain Bonaparte," St. Pierre turned to the brother of Napoleon. "The Emperor has sent a check to you for his presence, sir. On landing we found that he had condescended to come to Bordeaux where he expects you to join him immediately."

"To join him immediately!" Jerome exclaimed.

"Napoleon has reserved for you one of the richest honors in his power to give," St. Pierre watched the effects of his remarks upon his charge. He but waits your landing to bestow upon you the crown of Westphalia.

"Ah! So all your tears were groundless, St. Pierre?" Jerome breathed a sigh of relief.

"On the contrary!" St. Pierre shook his head. "I regret to say that they were all too well founded. Napoleon will never countenance this marriage. You might have known that as well as I. Your so-called bride, Mistress Patterson, is forbidden the right to set foot on French soil."

"What? He dared?" Jerome's face flamed with anger. He dropped his hand to his sword and started forward threateningly. "Then tell him," he began, "that I have received his message and tell him also that my reply is that until Napoleon accepts my wife, I, myself, will never set foot in France."

"You are commanded to come to shore immediately and alone," St. Pierre returned severely. "Monsieur Patterson," he bowed, "I trust you will pardon what I have returned to say, and believe me, I am only trying to the best of my ability to execute the will of him who sent me."

"Before you go any further, sir," Patterson said truthfully. "I may tell you at once that however strong may be Napoleon's objections to this marriage—as I adjudge they are by your apology—they cannot be stronger than were my own when the news was so suddenly brought me."

"I beg your pardon, Monsieur," St. Pierre looked questioning at the Major, scarcely understanding the meaning of his words. He did not know whether to believe that Patterson had objected to Jerome as a son-in-law or whether he actually understood the political significance of such a union.

"I mean what I say," Patterson explained, realizing that St. Pierre was thinking. "What has this alliance with Napoleon, or rather the brother of Napoleon, to offer me for the loss of my daughter? Do you think that anything but my Betty's happiness could reveal with me to embark upon this strange expedition? No, gentlemen, no. It was for my Betty's happiness that I came. It was for her happiness that I myself acknowledged this marriage. It is too late now to change my mind. I shall be content and God may sign my discharge. Now, proceed, sir."

PLAY FILMED IN WASTES OF SNOW REGIONS

A picture as impressive as the vast uncharted snow regions of the North is being shown at the Richmond Theatre.

It is "Back to God's Country," a dynamic tale of the North, from James Oliver Curwood's ever popular novel of the same name, and has been made into a really spectacular production by Irvin Willat who directed for Universal.

The story might be likened to the snow country, full of surprises to the explorer traveling its smooth, sparkling surface. He plows through snow drifts, rises on knolls from where he can overlook placid seas of snow, then to the top of a mountain range whence he sees the boundless panorama of Nature's mighty creation.

This is the way "Back to God's Country" impressed the reviewer. The risks and the drifts representing minor crises and the mountain representing the exciting climaxes of a tale told smoothly as the newly fallen snow.

Renee Adoree is effervescent in her role which is both dramatic and gaily youthful. This characterization will win for her many more fans. Robert Frazer is handsome and manly in the male lead and demonstrates his ability as a real actor.

Other film features include the last chapter of "Heroes of the Wild," Felix the Cat.

NEW HEALTH CAMPAIGN TO BE LAUNCHED

Master plumbers and heating contractors are starting an intensive advertising drive and a co-operative campaign with civic organizations and women's clubs to carry out locally the national movement of the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau to "Make a Health Examination of Your Home."

This movement, which joins the efforts of the medical profession to combat diseases and their causes was begun this week with national advertising. Large reproductions of the first advertisements are being displayed in the windows of heating contractors and master plumbers here.

Leading local heating contractors and master plumbers point out that serious bacterial infections often have their beginning in insanitary plumbing equipment. While colds and pulmonary disturbances usually are traceable to inefficient heating methods within the homes.

Regular check-up and examination services will be rendered to Richmond residents by plumbers and heating contractors. Frequently they will be able to make suggestions that will lead not only to health conservation, but also to actual savings in money.

Don't let any arteries harden in your home!

A vital advertisement called "Keeping up with the Joneses in the gay nineties and today" appears in the Saturday Evening Post of May 26th.

This is a message for every thinking home-owner. Your plumbing and heating fixtures must be kept modern, efficient, hygienic. Hidden piping, the arteries of your home, must not be allowed to fail through neglect.

Let us "make a health examination of your home." It will cost you nothing.

ISLAND RULED BY DOGS IS REPORTED BY SAILORS

CAPETOWN, May 25.—Few stranger narratives of the sea have reached port than that of the island of Juan de Nova—the kingdom of dogs—an account of which has been brought here by the captain of a French schooner.

"We were sailing north" said the captain "up the Mozambique channel, between East Africa and Madagascar, and passed within sight of Juan de Nova one dawn. I picked it up through my glasses and happened to see a battered ship's boat fast on a reef.

Russian Peasants To Weigh Merits of New Land Measure

MOSCOW, May 25.—Owing to the opposition encountered in the All Union Central Executive Committee from many peasant delegates, the new land law is to be referred "to the people"—that is, it will be described and discussed in thousands of meetings throughout the Soviet Union.

Some slight modifications in it may be made from the experience thus obtained, but that it will be adopted in its main lines is fairly certain because its underlying principle is the suppression of the Kulaks, or rich peasants, in order to satisfy the land hunger of the small peasants, in order to satisfy the land hunger of the small peasants.

SQUEEZED TO DEATH
This hunger, however, will be only satisfied on Socialistic lines. In the new land distribution which the Bill proposes these poor peasants who consent to form collective farming groups will get the best land first and will be liberally helped with tractors, ploughs, seed, cattle, etc., on long easy credits from the Soviet State. The less fully socialized groups of poor peasants will come next.

The middle peasants, who hitherto have been one of the foundations of the Soviet's land policy, receive scant favor under the new bill, while the Kulaks—as the Peasant Tax law passed last week already showed—their extra land being taken from them and their right to rent or lease land and employ labor curtailed.

The two chief aims of the new Bill are: First, to build up a rural collectivism, based on the poor peasants; second, to make "The terrier lifted his head and howled. It was the weirdest noise I have ever heard, and in the dawn there, and on this deserted island, which is nothing more than horseshoe or coral, and coming from a dog which I had expected to bark, it sent a shiver down my back.

"The howl had a staggering effect. More dogs appeared around the rock and on the sky line. I should say there were twenty at least. They began to move toward us. 'Come on,' said Dufour, 'let's go. And we went.

"The dogs came to the water's edge, and watched us pull out. Some squatted, some walked slowly about, one scratched himself. The large white terrier never took his eyes off us and we reached the ship completely beaten men.

"Many ships in the days of sail called there for fresh water, fruit and turtles and that is how the dog's kingdom came into being. Dogs escaped from the ships from time to time, of all kinds and from all countries.

"They have bred into the most curious and savage species on the face of the earth."

We Are Sorry We Did Not Explain

Living right with our goods, as we do, and knowing so well just how much Quality is stressed in their manufacture, we took it for granted that you understood it, too; that you knew that our low prices were made by skillful buying and not because we bought up "mill ends" or "job lots" or "imperfects."

We are sorry we did not explain this before, but we want to make this one point clear right now. Our merchandise is at all times First Quality. Bankrupt stocks, job lots, and such goods are never, under any circumstances, permitted in our stores.

Another point we wish to emphasize is that each Manager personally selects his goods. Thus you are assured of a service suited to your community needs.

We are very glad that a customer asked us about these points, and we welcome the opportunity to explain. What people say and think about us is the most important thing in our business.

MECHANICS IN VICTORY OVER BANKER CLUB

A fierce battle raged on the first street park battle front last night, ending in the defeat of the American Trust team by the Mechanics Bankers by a score of 18 to 10.

The Mechanics let fly a barrage of hits, only two of them triple sakers, that made the diamond look like a merry-go-round. Up to the fourth inning, Marcus managed to hold the Trust company to 2 runs and 3 hits but in the fourth, they staged a rally that put the Mechanics on the defensive, that is until they got up to the bat and scored a few more runs.

There were so many changes in pitchers for the American Trust company that the scorekeeper was kept busy. Howard Holland and Boyd each had a turn at the mound. Marcus and McDonald did the twirling for the Mechanics.

Records Fall In Track Meet At Cambridge

By FRANK GETTY
United Press Sports Editor
HARVARD STADIUM, Cambridge, Mass., May 25.—(U.P.)—Three intercollegiate records fell as the 32nd annual I. C. A. A. A. track and field championships began here today.

Stanford University, defending the championship won in 1927, ran true to form by qualifying the greatest number of competitors for the finals on Saturday.

Yale, long hope of the east to stem the western invasion which six years ago overtook the title, had 11 men place, two fewer than the Stanford aggregation. Cornell, Harvard and the University of Southern California tied for third place in qualifying honors with eight each.

Eric Krenz, stock dark-haired Stanford weight man, established new intercollegiate marks in the shot and the discus, while Al Bates of Penn State, defending champion, outdid his own record in the broad jump with a leap of 24 feet, 10 3/8 inches.

Bud Houser's record of 49 feet, 11 3/4 inches for the shot put was bettered today by Krenz's 50 feet, 1 inch. Harlow Roberts, Stanford, also bettered Houser's distance, putting the shot 50 feet, 3/4 inch.

There was no prearranged plot for Salo to win today. Starting out at a terrific clip, Salo left the others in the rear because his legs carried him at the fastest pace and not because any of the runners wanted to see him return home a hero. He averaged about 8 miles an hour.

A crowd of 50,000 lined the highway from Sufferin, N. Y., in the stadium to give Salo a thunderous welcome.

In the discus throw, Krenz again showed the way with a record heave of 134 feet, 11 inches, beating by 4 feet 7 3/8 inches the previous mark established by Houser.

Society Flocks to Belmont Opening

DESPITE THE COOL and cloudy weather, society and other turf lovers flocked to Belmont Park, L. I. Above is a view of the crowd that turned out to see the opening of the racing season. Note the number of persons studying racing charts.

MONS. BORDE LOSES FIGHT WITH LIMAS

A disposition characteristic of Sunny France which gave him birth, proved valueless to Mons. Jim Borde within the four ropes at El Cerrito last night and as a result he went down to defeat before the attack of Joe Limas, pride of El Cerrito. Mons. Borde was in a playful mood, and what he lacked in pugilistic ability was more than offset by his comic capers. But the fans wanted gore and plenty of it, which is why Mons. Borde failed to impress in his first and probably last appearance in this section.

Limas, fighting with a fractured hand after the fifth round, still was able to wait home to an easy victory over the Frenchman. Mons. Borde, failing in his attempt to employ his fists to good advantage, took to making grimaces at Limas, with even less damage being done.

In the best bout of the evening, while it lasted, Mickey Brown of Richmond scored a two-round knockout over Red Mattson of San Francisco.

Buddy Ryan won a decision over Dave Flash in the semi-windup.

Charley Pond, substituting for Tommy Bennett, knocked out Manuel Fratis in the second frame.

Jess Hottinger, El Cerrito, won a decision over Joe Walcott in the curtain raiser.

50,000 Greet Pyle Leader In New York

By JAMES M. POWERS
United Press Special Writer
PASSAIC, N. J., May 25.—(U.P.)—John Salo, Passaic, N. J., Finn, who landed in Los Angeles March 4 for the start of C. C. Pyle's transcontinental derby with twenty cents in his pocket, returned home today to receive a conqueror's welcome.

Leading the pack in the next to the last lap in the cross-country marathon, the triangular-jawed Finn swept into the Passaic school stadium today in first place after covering the 24.7 miles from Sufferin, N. Y., in 2 hours, 49 minutes, 26 seconds.

There was no prearranged plot for Salo to win today. Starting out at a terrific clip, Salo left the others in the rear because his legs carried him at the fastest pace and not because any of the runners wanted to see him return home a hero. He averaged about 8 miles an hour.

Teams On Edge For Clash At Local Grounds

With fair weather in prospect, the asst Pablo horsehide massagers and the Richmond Sannies will go to the post at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon on the first street grounds to settle a little dispute over comparative strength.

It seems that there is a question of superiority involved, and the two teams will engage in desperate conflict for supremacy in local baseball circles. No matter which team loses, the Boy Scouts will win, as the contest is billed as a benefit for their fund.

One thousand tickets have been placed on sale, with indications that most of them will click the turn-stile tomorrow afternoon since this contest has struck the fancy of local baseball enthusiasts as no other contest ever has.

SUB-STATIONS FOR OIL PLANT TO START SOON

Work will be started within the next few weeks by the Pacific Petroleum Products company on inland sub-stations, according to an announcement made yesterday by William Roper, resident engineer in charge of construction details of the Richmond plant.

The Doheny company plans a statewide distribution and will begin by centering in the San Jose area where arrangements are being made to erect a sub-station equipped to store 20,000 gallons of motor oils and 150,000 gallons of other products.

Work on the new warehouse and garage and the wharf, contract for which was awarded to the Healy-Thibbitts company is progressing satisfactorily at the Point Povedra plant. Four of the tanks located for operating purposes near the wharves are filled with gasoline recently unloaded from the steamer Larry Dohney. Work on painting the tanks has been begun by Zeb Knott, who was awarded the contract.

Bridge Company Announces May Travel Record

During the first year of its operation which closed on May 20, the Carquinez bridge carried 1,075,583 automobiles and 2,790,914 passengers, according to statistics compiled by Oscar H. Klatt, president of the American Toll-Bridge Company.

Comparing the volume of traffic for the last twelve months of the bridge, Klatt reports an increase of almost a half million automobiles and 1,214,543 passengers.

"Our peak month, according to our figures, is July with a total of 133,085 cars and 369,274 passengers. June, August and September are well within the 100,000 class.

January with its rain is of course the low month with 64,703 machines and 157,407 passengers. February brought an increase of 2000 cars, registering 66,377 cars while March showed an increase of another 2000, the figures being 68,867. In April there was a jump to 80,853 cars and with May and June, the summer traffic starts.

"These figures are gratifying in the extreme and I may say they are in line with our own estimates of the amount of traffic which we felt we could reasonably expect when we undertook the construction."

Public Invited To Inspect New Sunset Mausoleum

The new Sunset Mausoleum will be thrown open for public inspection on Memorial Day, according to announcement by Fred A. Turner, general manager of the association.

According to Turner: "One year ago Memorial Day we announced the erection of this massive above ground temple of entombment to the public. Since then we have made ready for entombment and finished two sections of the first unit, namely Lawn Terrace and Sunset.

"The pre-designed plan of Sunset calls for five more units that will provide for 25,000 crypts and will mean an ultimate expenditure of $7,000,000. When the entire mausoleum is completed we feel certain we will have the right to claim the most beautiful and enduring memorial ever erected.

"The architectural beauty and exquisite finish of the imported marble which is being used in the construction of the mausoleum has today been viewed by thousands and gives one an idea of how the memorial will look when all the units are finished.

"The ceilings of all the units will be finished in mosaic designs while the walls and floors are to be set in Italian and French marble."

It takes an accomplished liar to hand a woman satisfactory compliments.

Gasoline Is Now Obtained Through Coal

FRANKFURT-ON-MAIN, Germany, May 25.—Successful production of gasoline from coal has been effected, Carl Bosch, president of the I.G. Farbenindustrie Co., announced at the annual stockholders meeting Thursday.

Bosch said the company and Standard Oil of New Jersey would open a joint experimental station in the United States this summer. Output of gasoline from coal Bosch said, would reach 100,000 tons this year and 200,000 tons during 1929.

Bosch said his company soon would undertake the hydrogenation of anthracite, while experiments regarding synthetic production of lubricating oils, coal oil and other products were promising.

Dusky Beauties Enter Contest

CORONA, May 25.—Negro beauties from New Orleans, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Galveston, Denver, San Francisco, Seattle and other cities have entered the first annual bathing beauty contest of the Parkside Country club on Decoration Day. Membership in the club is open to persons of all races.

There is no objection to a man taking up his residence almost anywhere, but when it comes to shoplifting—well, that's different.

Warden, Not Doomed Needs Stimulation

NEW YORK, May 25.—The warden and not the doomed prisoner needs a stimulant when death is inflicted in the electric chair. The man made lightning is as liable to cut short some trivial remark as it is a protest of ignorance. It seldom interrupts a warden.

Lewis E. Lawes, warden of Sing Sing prison, will discuss the details of the electric "burning" which raises the temperature of the brain to water's boiling point in the June issue of the World's Work.

Warden Lawes' work—part of it—is to preserve condemned criminals until the date of execution and then supervise the dispatching. It has developed upon him to send 119 men and one woman, Mrs. Ruth Brown Snyder to eternity. He does not like it. He is one of the foremost advocates of the abolishment of the death penalty in America.

One reason is that many of those whose execution he must oversee have become his friends, people he finds no wise different, except that they have committed a murder—from those outside the grim gray walls at Ossining. What is life like in the death house? It is mostly hope. Warden Lawes has found. More than 90 per cent of those committed hope for a reversal in the Court of Appeals.

Once sentenced to die, the chances for a new trial are a little better than 1 out of 10. In the event of a new trial, however, the chances are 11 out of 12 acquittal or conviction of a lower degree of homicide. After the conviction is affirmed, the chances for commutation by the governor to life imprisonment are about one out of three.

In the event of commutation.
